

Can you draw and write about different things you might see out of a train window?

I see _____

A faint, light-colored illustration of train tracks receding into the distance, serving as a background for the writing area.

I see _____

A faint, light-colored illustration of train tracks receding into the distance, serving as a background for the writing area.

I see _____

A faint, light-colored illustration of train tracks receding into the distance, serving as a background for the writing area.