Dear Parents/Carers

I'd just like to clarify the situation around home learning for pupils who test positive for Covid. If your child has Covid, but is asymptomatic, we are obliged to provide home learning for them as, at the moment, you must keep them off school. If your child is ill with Covid (or anything else) then home learning is not appropriate as your child is poorly.

If you choose to keep your child at home as a precaution when they don't actually have Covid, we are not obliged to provide any home learning. The websites below will be useful if you decide to keep your child at home but personalised home learning will not be provided.

As far as I am aware, new public health guidelines will come into force on April 1st and I will keep you informed of any changes as promptly as I can.
